

The United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child

Article 19 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child provides that children have the right to be protected from all forms of physical or mental violence, injury or abuse, neglect or negligent treatment, maltreatment or exploitation including sexual abuse by those looking after them.

The Children Order

The central trust of the Children (Northern Ireland) Order 1995, which came in to effect on 4th November 1996, is that the welfare of the child must be the paramount consideration, and it is this essential principle which underpins the advice by which we work.

The overriding concern of all caring adults must be the care, welfare and safety of the child, and the welfare of each child is our paramount consideration. The problem of child abuse will not be ignored by anyone who works in our school, and we know that some forms of child abuse are also a criminal offence.

What is Child abuse?

We use the following definition:

Neglect – the persistent or significant neglect of a child, or the failure to protect a child from exposure to any kind of danger, including cold or starvation, or persistent failure to carry out important aspects of care, resulting in the significant impairment of the child's health or development, including non-organic failure to thrive.

Physical – physical injury to a child, whether deliberately inflicted or knowingly not prevented.

Sexual – The sexual exploitation of a child or young person.

Emotional – persistent or significant emotional ill-treatment or rejection, resulting in severe adverse effects on the emotional, physical and/or behavioural development of a child.

In Gaelscoil na mBeann we believe that an ethos of caring permeates all our activities.
